Welcome!

TO OUR TOP 100 SITES 2026

As we bring you the 2026 edition of the Top 100 Sites Guide, we continue to be impressed by the exceptionally high standards being set across the industry. Campsites are consistently going the extra mile to ensure every guest feels welcome and well catered for. Your feedback highlights the warmth and helpfulness of staff, alongside the dedication that goes into keeping grounds pristine and washrooms spotless. Facilities also earn high praise, from clubhouses and fishing spots to peaceful adults-only retreats and family-friendly escapes.

Whether guests are praising sociable clubhouses, peaceful adults-only havens, great fishing spots or fun-filled family settings, it's evident that there is something – and somewhere – in touring for everyone. Behind the scenes, owners are constantly investing in upgrades and thoughtful touches, while also taking steps to protect and nurture the natural environment.

You'll recognise some familiar names from previous editions, alongside exciting new additions. Every site featured has been voted for by guests, with our expert team carefully reviewing the results to finalise the Top 100. Earning that level of loyalty in such a competitive landscape is no small achievement and shows just how special these sites are. We hope this guide helps you plan your 2026 tours and we're confident that whichever site you choose, an outstanding stay awaits...

Ballyness Caravan Park

Address 40 Castlecat Road, Bushmills BT57 8TN

Web ballynesscaravanpark.com Tel 028 2073 2393

Open 13 March - 28 October Touring pitches 50 Pitch+2+hook-up from £34

Found in the spectacular North Antrim countryside, Ballyness Caravan Park continues to stand out as one of Northern Ireland's top touring destinations.

A regular feature in our annual guide and a multiple Regional Winner, the park once again takes top honours thanks to its beautiful setting, outstanding customer service and exceptional facilities. Those qualities have brought other awards too, including David Bellamy Gold Conservation Awards. Immaculate hardstanding pitches are spread across three touring areas, each offering electric, water and drainage hook-ups.

Facilities are housed in a charming cottage-style building and include modern toilets, showers, a family bathroom and an accessible shower room. Families are well catered for with a play park, football field and an indoor games and TV room for wetter days, while dog owners can make use of the on-site dog walk. Bushmills village is just a 15-minute walk away, with the Causeway Coast's beaches, trails and iconic attractions such as the Giant's Causeway and the famous Carrick-a-Rede rope bridge all within easy reach.

You say:

- > This is a great site. The grounds are immaculately kept and the shower block is spotless. There are good laundry facilities and – last but by no means least – friendly, helpful staff. What's not to like?
- > Probably the best site in Northern Ireland. It is spotlessly clean and pays great attention to detail.
- > Faultless! We have tried other sites and have concluded that this is by far the best.

Scotland

Inspiring landscapes and ancient sites make for a touring nirvana

With epic scenery unfolding mile by mile and plenty of space to slow down and explore, Scotland is made for touring. The Assynt region in the northwest feels raw and untamed, with dramatic peaks, empty roads and secluded lochs. Further east, the Cairngorms National Park has gentle glens such as Glen Feshie, perfect for peaceful walks and wildlife spotting.

In Argyll, the Kilmartin Glen area offers a collection of standing stones and ancient sites within a compact, easily driveable landscape. To the south, Galloway Forest Park combines rolling hills with some of the darkest night skies in Europe, ideal for stargazing.

Clava Cairns

Clava Cairns is an ancient Bronze Age burial site near Inverness in the Highlands, dating back around 4,000 years. It features a group of three well-preserved stone cairns, with passage graves, ring cairns and surrounding standing stones, aligned to the midwinter sunset.

Set in peaceful woodland above the River Nairn, the site was a sacred cemetery reused over centuries and offers insight into prehistoric beliefs and monument building. It's free and open year-round.

Hearty congratulations to Red Kite Touring Park, our 2026 Regional Winner for Wales! This outstanding adults-only site in mid-Wales has been celebrated for its exceptional facilities and consistently high standards, and it's open all year round, too.

Red Kite offers a spacious touring park with fully serviced pitches set across beautifully maintained and south-facing tiers, offering tremendous views of the surrounding countryside. Visitors enjoy modern, well-equipped washrooms, access to a coarse-fishing lake, and convenience with the on-site shop, which is perfect for picking up essentials.

Dog owners will also love their stay here, thanks to the 10-acre dog-walking area – there's even a pond for your pet to cool off in – and the on-site dog wash makes cleaning up mucky paws simple.

There are a number of rewarding and scenic walks and cycling trails in the area, and the site is just a 15-minute stroll from the historic and pretty market town of Llanidloes.

You say:

➤ One of the best sites we have stayed on. Immaculate facilities, and the wardens are so friendly and helpful. The pitches are all fully serviced and have fab views. Brilliant dog field and plenty of lovely walks around the area. Peace and tranquillity for anyone wanting somewhere special to stay!

➤ A wonderful place to enjoy a holiday. Chantelle and Tom are always so welcoming. The site is kept in a pristine condition and the area is beautiful.

St Cuthbert's Way

St Cuthbert's Way is an historic long-distance walking route stretching about 62 miles from Melrose in the Scottish Borders to Holy Island (Lindisfarne), passing through wild hills, river valleys and coastal scenery. The trail follows paths associated with the 7th-century saint's life and legacy, combining rugged countryside and rich heritage. Along the way, St Cuthbert's Cave near Belford is a striking sandstone outcrop where, according to tradition, monks carrying the saint's body sought shelter during Viking raids in AD 875.

Eastern England

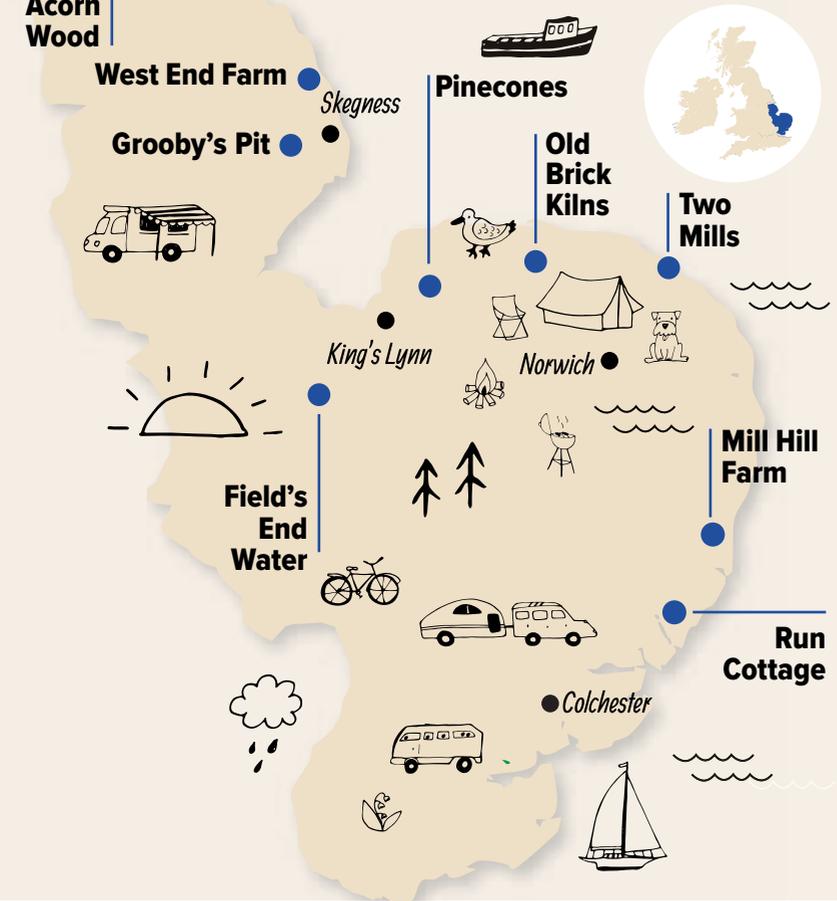

Winding waterways, unforgettable coastal views and plenty of green

Eastern England is a surprisingly diverse region. You can set off to the Norfolk Broads National Park, the Lincolnshire Wolds or the Fens and bask in nature's beauty. Alternatively, take a day-trip to one of the region's cities, such as Norwich or Colchester, and explore a castle, or wander through the cobbled streets of Cambridge. Then there's Sandringham and the archaeological wonders of Sutton Hoo.

You can also take a trip to the coast and enjoy walking or cycling along the unforgettable Suffolk or Norfolk coastlines. Or relax by the sea at an Essex coastal resort, such as Frinton-on-Sea or Walton-on-the-Naze. In short, we don't think you'll be bored...

South-East England

Historic settlements and varied scenes of natural beauty

South East England harbours a beguiling mix of coastline, countryside and historic towns, making it ideal for those who value variety in their travels. In Kent, Blean Woods offer woodland walks and a peaceful contrast to the busy cathedral city of Canterbury, while on the Sussex coast, Cuckmere Haven has open views, meandering river paths and a wonderfully unspoilt feel. Inland, the High Weald AONB hides quiet lanes, timber-framed villages and natural gems such as Bedgebury Pinetum. With good road access and plenty of lesser-known stopovers, the South East is packed with treats.

Dorset

Miles of fossil-filled coast, sea views aplenty and a literary heritage

It's not a surprise that the region that is home to the start (or end, depending on your perspective) of the South West Coast Path delivers on the stunning coastal sights front.

Take in the Jurassic Coast's many unforgettable attractions, including Chesil Beach, Durdle Door and Lulworth Cove, and hunt for fossils. Then enjoy a trip to one of the many seaside destinations such as Poole Harbour, Christchurch, Weymouth, Bournemouth and Swanage.

Dorset has literary links too, and you can explore author Thomas Hardy's house in Dorchester.

Unforgettable beaches and plenty of great walking routes

Devon is, in many ways, a walker's paradise, with both open green space and coastal sights. It's home to two beautiful National Parks, in Exmoor and Dartmoor, while stretches of the Jurassic Coast and the South West Coast Path both pass through the region, offering unforgettable views.

Make the most of the beautiful English Riviera by visiting Torquay and Brixham. Or, head to one of northern Devon's surfing spots, such as Woolacombe, and take to the waves. Then visit Exeter and enjoy a cream tea while pondering the correct pronunciation of the word 'scone'.

Buckland Abbey

Once owned by Sir Francis Drake, Buckland Abbey was founded in the 13th century as a Cistercian monastery, before morphing into a Tudor home during the reign of Henry VIII. As well as the house itself, you can visit the Great Barn, which was a Medieval Tithe Barn, as well as the Elizabethan garden and kitchen garden, and take a wander through the woodlands of the estate, with their circular walks offering lovely views of the Tamar Valley. Finish it all off with a visit to the dog-friendly coffee shop. Younger members of the party may enjoy the play area too.

Well done to our new Regional Winner for Devon: Yeatheridge Farm Caravan & Camping Park!

This family-friendly campsite sits in the centre of Devon, making it a great base for daytrips. If you have time, that is, as the site provides a wide range of facilities for all ages to enjoy.

Those facilities include two indoor heated swimming pools, a games room and the Bull Pen Bar, the campsite's bar and restaurant. That's not all, with two fishing lakes available (a rod licence is required), where carp, tench, bream, rudd and crucian are stocked.

Younger members of the touring party will have plenty to keep them occupied too, with two play parks, a playing field, a soft play area and the chance to see the farm animals. A two-and-a-half-mile walk allows everyone to take in the beauty of the farm as well.

Canine companions will not feel left out either, as both a dog walk and a dog wash are available. Other facilities include two washing-up areas, a laundry, a modern toilet and shower block, and an on-site shop.

Local attractions to visit include Exeter, Castle Drogo, Tiverton Museum of Mid Devon Life, and Bickleigh Castle.

You say:

- We go every year. It's so relaxing and the kids love it. It just keeps getting better.
- A brilliant campsite with everything you could wish for. It's very child- and dog-friendly too.
- We have been going for over two decades because of the fantastic family and staff who run it. The food is amazing and the pool is a brilliant bonus!

Cornwall

Picture-perfect beaches and a sense of magic in the air

Cornwall is a region rich in history and myth. Take in the atmospheric Bodmin Moor and the smugglers' hide-out, Jamaica Inn. Step into Arthurian legend at Tintagel, or visit the many fishing villages to get a taste of the heritage of this characterful region.

St Ives, Looe, Penzance and Newquay are just a few of the seaside destinations that are well worth visiting. Enjoy the beauty of the natural world too, as you explore the South West Coast Path, or embark on a spot of birdwatching at Land's End.

After all that, you'll have certainly worked up an appetite for a pasty or two.

Tintagel

Built by Richard, Earl of Cornwall, this 13th-century castle is set by the sea and is steeped in Arthurian legend. The original island fortress here dates back to the 5th century, and was the stronghold – and probably the main residence – of various post-Roman Cornish rulers. Step into the Great Hall, then visit Gallos, the life-sized bronze sculpture influenced by Arthurian myth. Stop by Merlin's Cave when the tide is out, visit the island garden to find out about the love story of Tristan and Iseult, and see what wildlife you can spot on the island, which is a Site of Special Scientific Interest.

Address Gwendreath, Lizard, Helston TR12 7LZ

Web silversandsholidaypark.co.uk Tel 01326 290 631

Open 6th March - 2nd November Touring pitches 30 Pitch+2+hook-up From £23

Congratulations to Silver Sands Holiday Park for continuing its dominance in our Top 100 Sites Guide, as the campsite now takes the Regional Winner's title for an impressive fifth year in a row.

Nestled on the Lizard Peninsula in an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, this tranquil site can be found in nine acres of beautiful countryside. For 2026, Silver Sands has refurbished its shower and toilet facilities, and comes with a dishwashing area and waste disposal points.

Guests are able to enjoy spacious pitches and can also make use of a laundrette, EV charging, picnic tables and a children's play area, which includes a sand pit, a wooden play area and a grassy space. Campfires are also permitted.

From the dog-friendly site, enjoy a 10-minute walk through woodland to reach Kennack Sands. Alternatively, take in the beauty of Lizard Point with a coastal stroll, explore the breathtaking Kynance Cove or bask in the peace of Helford River.

Have a break from driving by catching the local bus; the stop is only a 10-minute walk from the site. Or, take advantage of the campsite's convenient location and drive to Penzance, St Ives or Perranporth.

You say:

- This is a welcoming, clean and very peaceful site, with a host team that really seems to care about their clients.
- The site is incredibly well looked after and has everything you need.
- The friendliest campsite I've stayed at.

It takes some doing to secure the top spot here, so what is the secret to Old Oaks' success?

SITES

2026

You say:

› Simply the best site in the country. Well-maintained and in beautiful surroundings. Plus, a toilet and shower building that is like a five-star spa.

› I have visited the site several times now, with stays varying from two to eight nights, and every time it has maintained consistently outstanding quality in all areas.

› We have stayed at many sites within the UK and Europe over the past five years, and Old Oaks is the standout site. It is always immaculate and beautifully maintained. It really sets a high bar for others to follow.

› Having caravanned for 43 years, we have found this to be the best-kept and friendliest site we have ever been to.

› We have been using Old Oaks for many years and the facilities just keep getting better. This is definitely a five-star adults-only site. We can honestly say that this is the best site we have ever used.

TO BE NAMED THE Overall winner in one of our Top 100 Sites Guides is a huge achievement. This is the fourth consecutive year we have co-edited this Guide, and each year we have remarked on how sites across the UK continue to up their game, ensuring nothing gets overlooked in the pursuit of ensuring their visitors enjoy the perfect getaway. The standard is universally very high.

That makes the achievement of Old Oaks, in being named the Overall Winner for a second year in a row, all the more deserving of a huge round of applause.

What is it that this adults-only site, near Glastonbury, is doing so well? A look at what you, our readers, have to say makes it apparent, with plenty of your comments drawing attention to the high standards of the amenities on offer. The immaculate wash blocks, in particular, received lots of praise, thanks to their cleanliness and the luxury facilities they provide. The peace and quiet on offer, as well as the site's dog-friendly nature, were two other points that were regularly complimented. Staff also make a campsite stay so special, and here, their helpfulness and friendliness drew frequent comments.

One reader's remark stood out: "My only reason to complain is that I wish it were two hours closer to home so I could spend more time there. Old Oaks should be the blueprint for sites across the country." That says it all. Congratulations, Old Oaks! For full details of the site, see p59

COOKING IN YOUR 'VAN

With a bit of planning, cooking in your leisure vehicle is a brilliant way to enjoy great food and local produce on the road, says Marcus Leach

EATING AND TRAVEL are very closely intertwined. It is impossible to set out on any trip without food playing a major part in the experience, from the meals we eat on the road, to the people and stories associated with all of the delicious local produce that we might discover.

I would argue that the ability to sample foods and regional delicacies that would not be available to us in everyday life is one of the great pleasures of travel, particularly when caravanning and motorhoming.

I have lost count of the number of times we have been driving through a village or past a little roadside market, and pulled over on seeing purveyors of local produce that we would otherwise have very little opportunity to cook and enjoy. Sampling their goods and hearing the stories behind them adds to the experience, not just of our trip, but also of the meal we eat as a family at the end of the day.

For us, that's one of the great advantages of travelling with a leisure vehicle and staying in different locations – the ability to buy and cook the foods that help to give the region we are exploring its identity.

From the UK's great cheeses, Murcia's paprika and Portugal's piri piri sauce, to olives in Provence, chorizo on the Iberian Peninsula and an abundance of fish along the Mediterranean coast, there's an endless supply of wonderful ingredients that we can use when we're out on the road.

A taste of something new

There's a common misconception that cooking in a 'van is an inconvenience, given that you have fewer facilities than at home. But it doesn't have to be.

With a bit of planning and organisation before your trip, you can be well equipped to rustle up all manner of tasty dishes and snacks, no matter where you are.

Just as it is at home for us, cooking is an integral part of the day when we are on the road and we look forward to it. Yes, there are nights when we arrive at a site later than expected, or turn up to find it has a brilliant restaurant (our weakness is wood-oven pizza, preferably with a local beer!), but we take great pleasure in cooking on tour.

TOP COOKERY TIPS

Plan ahead

As much as we love buying produce we come across on our travels, we also take some essentials with us, so no matter what, we can cook. We will have a few set nights when we know exactly what we are cooking in advance, with the rest open to using whatever we happen to buy on tour.

Support local sellers

Be it at home or on the road, we always try to support small, local businesses and independent sellers when it comes to food. We may end up paying a little more at times, but we always get far better produce, and on our travels, enjoy great food that we simply wouldn't be able to find elsewhere.

Keep it simple

You don't have to have a Michelin star to create tasty meals in your 'van. Speaking from experience, the best dishes are often the simplest, using a few pots and pans, and eating as a family in a beautiful location.

Make it fun

We involve the children as much as possible, be that peeling vegetables or helping to mix ingredients. It gives them a sense of purpose and a feeling that they're contributing – even if, half the time, they'd rather be outside playing! But the focus for us has always been on having fun, whatever we are doing.

Be prepared

There's nothing worse than not having the right equipment to cook with, so make sure you have a good set of knives, pots and pans that fit the smaller hobs and a selection of other basic kit. This will allow you to prepare a variety of dishes and not end up frustrated because you don't have the right tools. One luxury item we have is a compact food processor.

Take spices with you

Herbs and spices can transform any meal from half-hearted into delicious, so keep a good selection in your lockers and you'll

Buy local produce, keep a few standby tins in the cupboard and most of all, have fun when you're cooking in your 'van!

always be able to serve tasty dishes. Bear in mind that they don't last forever – be sure to replace them when they reach their use-by date.

Store safely

Make sure that you store your food safely, particularly if you're not going to be using the 'van for any length of time.

Remove all fresh food when you leave and ensure that dried foods are securely stored in airtight containers. For more information about safely packing your fridge, see p86.

Keep it simple

Sometimes you don't have time to cook, or simply can't be bothered – in which case, make it easy for yourself. Keep tins and packets of beans, stews and noodles in your lockers and you'll always have something ready to rustle up. Having this option will also help save money.

As for your first evening in the 'van, the chances are you'll have had a long drive, so before you go, cook a favourite dish and freeze it. Put it in your fridge before you leave, then, at your destination, you'll have a tasty meal that just needs reheating.

CHIPOTLE CHILLI BEEF BURGERS

A classic dish gets a spicy twist for added flavour!

TOP TIP

The burgers can be frozen for up to a month. Defrost in the fridge overnight before continuing with Step 2

Using kidney beans to bulk out the meat provides you with a really punchy burger.

■ Serves six

■ Ready in 25 minutes, plus chilling

INGREDIENTS

400g/14oz can kidney beans, rinsed and drained

500g/1.1lb beef steak mince

1.5 tbsp tomato purée

2 garlic cloves, crushed

1 large free-range egg yolk

10 cornichons, very finely chopped

Large handful of coriander leaves, finely chopped

1-2 tsp dried crushed chipotle chilli

Quarter tsp sweet smoked paprika

1 tbsp sunflower oil

METHOD

1 Mash up the kidney beans with a fork. Put all the ingredients except the oil in a large bowl and use your hands to mix well. Divide into six equal portions, then shape into burgers. Cover and set aside in the fridge to firm up for at least two hours or overnight. You need them to firm up well or they could fall apart while on the grill.

2 Prepare your barbecue or a frying pan. Brush the burgers with the oil and cook for around four minutes on each side or until cooked through. Serve on a bun, if you like, with guacamole and tortilla chips.

Fridge power

Most modern 'vans have absorption fridges with no moving parts. Cleverly, they can work on three different power sources: gas, mains electricity (230V), or 12V, usually only when your vehicle's engine is running.

It's important to check your fridge functions in all three modes – you wouldn't want extended periods, such as a long drive on 12V, when the contents are inadequately chilled because of a fault.

KEEP COOL & CARRY ON

John Sootheran provides some ice-cold (or thereabouts) tips on how to get the most from your fridge when out on tour

AH, THE HUMBLE refrigerator... it'll keep on quietly chilling away for years without a whimper. In fact, modern fridges are so good, we get complacent – until they go wrong, that is. Then it's like being plunged back into the listeria-filled Dark Ages.

Here's some great advice to help your leisure vehicle fridge perform at its best.

General overview and maintenance

■ 230V mains electricity gives the best fridge performance. Gas is the second best, while 12V is generally considered to be the least effective.

■ A well-maintained, modern fridge will chill brilliantly, even in extreme holiday temperatures. I holidayed in 42°C temperatures in France, a few years back. I was concerned about fridge cooling, but shouldn't have been. On mains hook-up the (new) Thetford refrigerator performed well, arguably better than our fridge at home.

■ Some modern fridges have a removable icebox, which can be taken out when you need to expand the chilling space.

■ Keep your fridge clean by washing the inside with warm water mixed with bicarbonate of soda. If there's a persistent bad smell, place half an onion inside. They are excellent at absorbing odours.

■ Keep your freezer box full, because it will freeze more effectively.

■ Top shelves deliver the most consistent temperatures; bottom shelves are coldest.

■ Always empty your fridge between trips.

■ When the 'van's not in use and the fridge is off, leave the door slightly ajar for better airflow. Some fridges have catches to hold the door in this position.

■ Never overload your fridge to the extent that it doesn't close properly.

■ You can buy clips to prevent containers and canisters moving around in the fridge when towing. Camco 44033 Fridge Clips cost around £18 for a pack of two online.

Prepping and using the fridge

■ Ideally, you should pre-cool your 'van's fridge-freezer before packing it for your trip. Turn it on for at least three hours, but ideally 24 hours, before you need to load the contents.

Once the fridge is down to the correct temperature, you can then load it up with pre-chilled food supplies.

■ If your leisure vehicle is stored on your drive, run an extension power cable to it, so that you can power the fridge on 230V mains electricity. If it's kept out on the road, use gas cooling instead.

■ Pack the contents carefully, ensuring they don't cover or touch the cooling fins at the back of the fridge, as these need to absorb heat from the compartment.

In addition, make sure there is space around the various items, so that cold air can circulate properly and chill all of the contents evenly and effectively.

■ Putting chilled-drinks tins and bottles, or frozen icepacks, in the fridge might help it achieve its cooling temperature faster.

■ Take care to buy cool-box icepacks, which fit into your freezer compartment.

■ Your fridge should remain cool for periods of several hours – such as on a ferry crossing – so long as you don't open the door. For longer crossings, wait until you arrive to buy meat and fresh veg/fruit.

■ Consider pre-freezing appropriate fridge contents, such as bread, cooked meals and milk, before packing the fridge. This keeps them fresher longer and helps to lower the temperature of the fridge compartment.

Why it matters

Inadequate refrigeration of certain foods can cause really unpleasant foodborne illnesses, like listeriosis.

This is caused by the Listeria monocytogenes bacteria (pictured right). The symptoms include fever, sickness and diarrhoea, and that's a best-case scenario.

- Don't store non-perishables in the fridge. Transfer them to it as you need them.
- Set your fridge temperature gauge to between 1°C and 4°C, for the best food chilling performance.
- Do not put hot food and leftovers into the fridge until cooled. In hotter climates where the fridge is in frequent use, it might never regain its sub-5°C safe temperature.
- Some fruit and vegetables, such as avocados, bananas, nectarines, peaches, pears, plums and tomatoes, will release ethylene gas that can make other fruit and veg spoil prematurely.
- Dry foodstuffs, such as beans, lentils, quinoa and couscous, will keep best in the freezer box.
- Keep fresh soft-stalked herbs, such as parsley, coriander and basil, in good condition by placing them upright in a jar with an inch of water in the bottom. Loosely cover them with a plastic bag.
- Keep hard-stalked herbs fresh by wrapping them in a single layer of damp paper towel and placing in a resealable plastic bag, before refrigerating.
- Fruit and vegetables should always be washed before eating, but shouldn't be left wet when stored, because this will promote early deterioration.
- Potatoes and onions should be kept in a cool, dry environment, not in the fridge.

ABOVE With a bit of planning, you'll be able to make best use of your fridge while on tour

Pack your fridge properly

FRUIT

Keep your fruit in the low-humidity drawer. Fruit keeps best when it's not exposed to too much moisture and should not be stored in tight sealed bags. Most fridges provide a low-humidity or crisper drawer, for grapes and apples.

■ Apples will stay crisper longer (for up to two weeks) if they are stored at 4°C.

■ Oranges should be kept in the fridge. A ripe orange loses its vitamin C more slowly if chilled.

■ Berries and melons should be kept out of the fridge until ripe. They can then be chilled for a short period, but will go mouldy quickly.

■ Ripen bananas outside the fridge, then maintain their freshness for up to two weeks by chilling them.

■ Ideally, tomatoes should not be chilled, because it adversely affects their flavour.

■ Grapes should be refrigerated. Only wash them before eating.

VEGETABLES

Most veg lasts longer in a moist environment, so some fridges have a higher-humidity drawer, usually next to the crisper.

■ To maintain their freshness longer, store your whole vegetables in this drawer, either loose or in open bags.

■ Salad and cut vegetables go off more quickly, so store them on the middle or top shelf. You'll also see them more often here, so won't forget about them.

■ Vegetables stay fresh longer if left unwashed. Water only increases the growth of bacteria.

RAW MEAT

You need to be very careful about how you store your uncooked meat products.

■ Meat should be stored in the coldest part of the refrigerator, usually at the bottom and at the back of the compartment, although some fridges have a meat drawer.

■ Keep your meat separate from other items in your fridge, ensuring that no fluids are spilling onto any other foodstuffs.

■ Clean the raw meat section more regularly than other places.

EGGS & MILK

■ Most caravanners and motorhomers store eggs and milk in the fridge door. However, this is the warmest part of the fridge, so they'll go off more quickly.

■ Cream, soft cheeses, yogurt and most other dairy products should also be stored on the fridge's cold shelf.

COOKED MEAT AND CHEESES

Deli meats and soft cheeses should go in a colder area.

■ Many fridges have a shallow drawer below the top or middle shelf, ideal for storing these foods, plus bacon, hotdogs and other cooked meats. Clean this drawer when you clean your raw-meat section.

CONDIMENTS, BUTTER AND DRINKS

■ Condiments often contain salt, vinegar and preservatives, so can be stored in the warmest fridge area.

■ Drinks tend not to go off quickly, so are fine in the door, too.

■ Butter doesn't need to be as cold as milk when you store it.

■ Olive oil can be kept in a cool, dark cupboard for up to a year without deteriorating.

READY-TO-EAT FOODS AND LEFTOVERS

■ Keep leftovers and ready-to-eat foods on top/middle shelves.

■ Items that don't need to be especially chilled include pizza and saucers.

■ The top or middle is also fine for medicines, a water jug and other consumables that won't spoil easily.

6 SITES for GREAT FOOD

One of the many pleasures of touring getaways is discovering fabulous restaurants, eateries and events. Here are some of our favourites

1 Heston Blumenthal's The Fat Duck and The Waterside Inn, Bray

Heston Blumenthal opened The Fat Duck over 30 years ago to promote immersive fine dining and molecular gastronomy. Housed in a 16th-century building in the riverside town of Bray, the restaurant received its third Michelin star in 2017. Diners can try the The Mindful Experience menu, an expression of more than a decade of Heston's explorations of our complex relationship with food and how eating can promote health and wellbeing.

Easy to use search tools!

On the look-out for a new motorhome? If so, we can help! Just like our inspiring travel stories, expert reviews and useful advice, we think that our online classifieds are the best in the business.

You can read our review of your chosen 'van, watch the video then find it online, making www.practicalmotorhome.com the one-stop shop for all your touring needs.

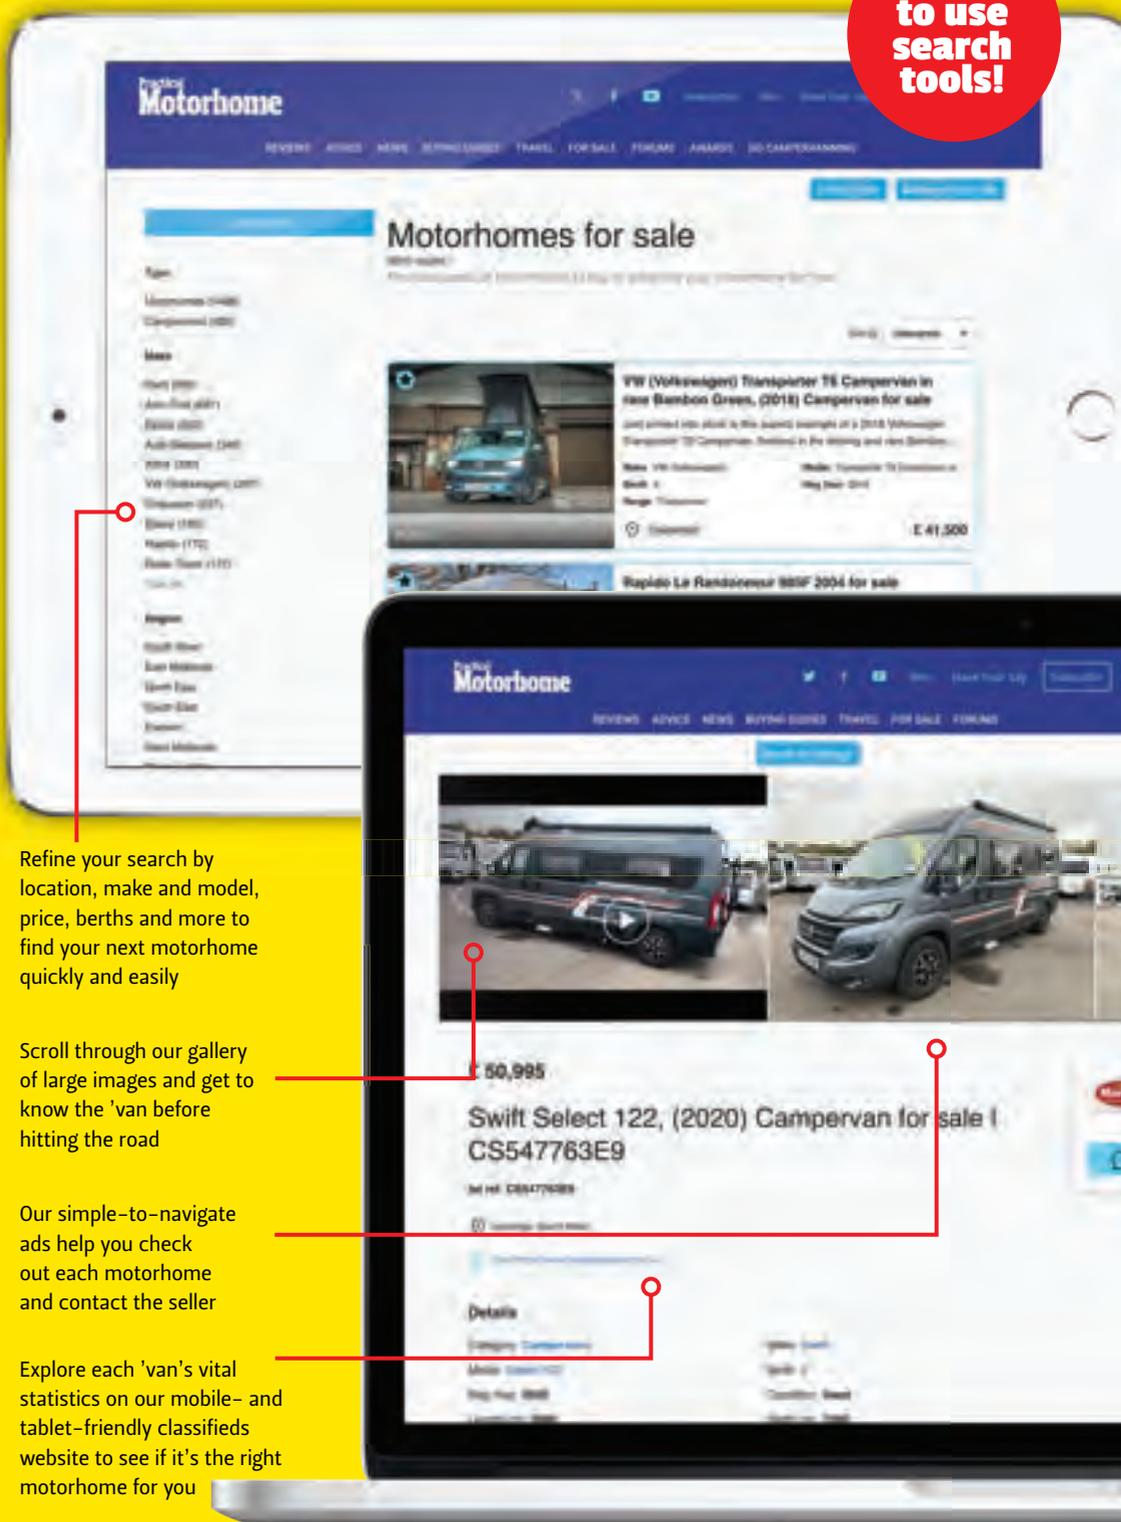

We already know that 50% of you access our website via mobile device, so our classifieds have been designed to be fully responsive – they should work just as well on your tablet or smartphone as they do on your home computer.

We've worked hard to make these classifieds as easy to use as possible, with filters to help you narrow your search by location, price, brand, year, weight and number of berths. Plus there are plenty of big, high-quality pictures to help you check out the 'van you are buying.

More than 75% of you buy from dealers, which is why we have some of the UK's biggest and best-known names on board. That means we have a regularly updated selection of some of Britain's best motorhomes on display, with more arriving soon.

WHY USE OUR SITE?

- Easy to navigate
- Large, high-quality pictures
- Read our expert review first!
- Fully searchable
- High-quality stock (from the UK's largest dealers)
- Mobile and tablet friendly

Refine your search by location, make and model, price, berths and more to find your next motorhome quickly and easily

Scroll through our gallery of large images and get to know the 'van before hitting the road

Our simple-to-navigate ads help you check out each motorhome and contact the seller

Explore each 'van's vital statistics on our mobile- and tablet-friendly classifieds website to see if it's the right motorhome for you
